

Steve Baranowski
Ancient Hands Tile Art

I studied painting and sculpture at Parson's School of Design, NYC.

I began making and selling my tiles in Durango, Colorado in 1995. The reason I chose to focus on ceramic tiles was that I wanted to combine the art of sculpture with painting to create a product which bridges the gap between art and craft. Tiles and ceramics are usually seen as a stuck in the realm of craft, I have strived to make them something much more while retaining the usefulness of the ceramic medium. Since I began making these tiles 20 years ago I have traveled all over the west coast selling them and have enjoyed much success.
